

Job Center Complaints and Appeals Process

Wisconsin Job Center customers and contractors have the right to enter into the complaint process to resolve grievances.

- Complaints must be filed within 1 year of the alleged violation.
- Discrimination complaints must be filed within 180 days from the alleged discriminatory act (may be extended for good cause).
- The complainant will be protected from retaliation.
- The complainant is permitted to have a translator, interpreter, reader and/or a representative of his/her choice during the complaint process.

COMPLAINTS INVOLVING DISCRIMINATION

Federal civil rights laws prohibit discrimination of members, applicants, enrollees, and beneficiaries in any programs and activities that receive Federal financial assistance that are run by State agencies (DHS/DCF/DWD) directly or by its partners, local agencies and contractors. Those laws prohibit recipients and subrecipients of Federal financial assistance from discriminating on the basis of race, color, national origin, sex, age, disability, and, in some programs, religious creed or political affiliation or beliefs, in their programs or activities, and in retaliating or engaging in reprisals against for opposing discrimination. If an applicant or participant is wrongfully denied services, or if the treatment received was separate or different than what others received, or if the program was not accessible to the applicant or participant, and it is believed it was because of one or more of these protected bases, it may be discrimination. The precise nondiscrimination requirements depend on which Federal agency funds the program or activity.

- Complaints may be filed at the respective Local, State or Federal Program Department.
- The Local/State/Federal Department has 90 calendar days to process the initial complaint.
- If you do not receive a response or if you are dissatisfied with the response from the Local or State Department, you may file your complaint with the Federal Civil Rights Center within the next 30 days. See regulations for specific timelines. See "Appeals Process" below for contact information.
